Visiting Instructor in Communication

The University of Macau (UMacau) is the flagship public university in Macao, which gives it a unique advantage in pursuing the goal of becoming a world-class university with regional characteristics. English is its working language. In recent years, UMacau has made significant progress and has gained increasing international recognition for its teaching, research, and community service. To better support higher education development in Macao and to meet society's ever-increasing demand for high-quality professionals, UMacau in 2014 relocated to a new campus that is 20 times the size of the old one. The large campus, the implementation of Asia's largest residential college system, the unique '4-in-1' education model combine to provide a multifaceted education to students to help them achieve well-rounded development. In addition to adopting a governance and management system in line with international standards and practices, UMacau internationally recruits outstanding scholars to create a multilingual and multicultural learning environment for students. With these new developments and initiatives, UMacau is faced with unprecedented opportunities and provides exciting new possibilities for professional development.

The Department of Communication of the Faculty of Social Sciences invites applications for a one-year contract for the position of Visiting Instructor in Communication, which is renewable. This position is intended to complement and strengthen existing departmental staff expertise: we are seeking the best candidate from the fields of communication, across areas such as media studies, public relations, journalism, cultural studies and cognate areas, who can contribute to departmental teaching needs.

The Department of Communication currently offers broad-based curricula leading to Bachelor's, Master's and doctoral degrees covering various areas of communication studies (communication theory, intercultural communication, organizational communication, communication skills); vocationally-oriented public communication (public relations, advertising, event planning); media studies and journalism (journalism writing and publication, mass media, new media, digital culture); creative industries (video production, photography, animation); and cultural studies (cultural and critical theory, cinema, popular culture). The Department of Communication has a diverse student body drawn from Macao, Mainland China, and other parts of the world. Information about the Department of Communication is available at the University website: <http://www.umac.mo/fss/comm>.

Qualifications

Applicants must hold a Bachelor's degree in communication or a related discipline (though a Master's degree or above is preferable), and should have a demonstrable record of excellence in teaching across the relevant areas of communication studies at the university level. While applicants must be fluent in English, ability to speak Chinese may be considered an asset, though it is not a prerequisite for the appointment.

The selected candidate should be able to commence duties in January 2018.

Application Procedure

Applicants should visit <http://www.umac.mo/career> for more details, and apply ONLINE at Career@UM (<https://isw.umac.mo/recruitment>) (Ref. No.: FSS/DCOM/VI/10/2017). Review of applications will commence immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applicants may consider their applications not successful if they were not invited for an interview within 3 months of application.
